

RESULTS-DRIVEN EXECUTIVE COACHING

DRIVING REAL BUSINESS RESULTS

The International Coach Federation performed a global coaching study in which it was reported that the median company return from coaching was 700% of the initial investment.

Companies that hire executive coaches for their executives and other top managers are making an investment that brings about a significant return on investment along with a greater ability to scale your business.

Results-Driven Executive Coaching unlocks the potential and increases the productivity of executives and other managers at every level who you want to develop.

RDL's executive coaching brings increased productivity and greater levels of company scaling success with improvements in decision making, strategic leadership, critical thinking. These improvements flow right to your company's scaling vision with revenue, cash flow, and productivity improvements.

THE JOB OF A COACH DIFFERS FROM;

Consultants as they give the answers

Mentors as they share their experiences, having been there and done that;

Therapists as they provide therapy for the attempted remediation of a mental health problem.

RESULTS-DRIVEN EXECUTIVE COACHING

Results-Driven Executive Coaching involves one-to-one, interactive dynamics between an RDL Executive Coach and executives and other managers. They will become skilled in their soft skills, strategic thinking, and business acumen.

Our Executive Coaching unlocks the potential of those being coached and increases their productivity. It dramatically speeds up productivity for executives, top-level managers, high potential managers being groomed to grow, and family member managers at every level.

If used in conjunction with the Results-Driven management training program, coaching reinforces what is learned in the training program and helps to apply it.

Results-Driven Executive Coaching is customized to adapt to the needs of both a scaling organization and the individual performance development of the person being coached.
